The ACADEMY for PROFESSIONALISM in HEALTH CARE

BYLAWS OF THE ACADEMY

Approved: October 1, 2012,

ARTICLE I - NAME

Section 1. The ACADEMY for PROFESSIONALISM in HEALTH CARE is known by acronym as APHC.

ARTICLE II - PURPOSES

Section 1. The purpose of the Academy for Professionalism In Health Care (APHC) is to support the development and maintenance of educational programs that promote professionalism in health care. The overriding goal of the Academy’s work is to serve patients’ best interests by advancing accountable educational programs, policies, and methodologies that exhort current and future health care providers to provide care consistent with the highest ethical and professional standards. APHC will devise and implement plans to address the needs of educators in ethics and humanities, social and behavioral sciences, and clinical medicine toward the improvement of professionalism. This will include developing strategies related to educational issues of importance to the Academy, reviewing opportunities for education of members, and educating outside organizations and the public about professionalism in healthcare and APHC’s mission.

Section 2. The Academy promotes scholarly inquiry regarding education in professionalism with members with diverse backgrounds. It is the expectation that the APHC may from time to time issue position statements on professionalism education in healthcare that result from such scholarly inquiry.

ARTICLE III - MEMBERSHIP
The Academy recognizes that there can be varied contributions from members with diverse backgrounds and disciplines, including: ethics and humanities, social and behavioral sciences, law, public policy, and health care professionals. APHC membership is open to all educators, administrators, clinicians, and others involved in health care education. The Academy encourages all members to engage actively in its activities. The Board may consider and establish future membership categories to expand to other levels (e.g., Fellowship) that recognize the contributions of educational accomplishments in ethics and humanities, social and behavioral sciences, law, public policy, and clinical medicine toward the improvement of professionalism in health care.

There are two (2) categories of members: Voting and Ex Officio, defined as follows:

Voting Members. Dues-paying members are voting members of APHC. All APHC membership benefits apply. There is no age limit.

Ex Officio Members. Ex Officio members are non-voting members and pay no dues, as they are representatives of other academic organizations. These members receive no benefits other than paying member-price registration costs and APHC routine communications for members.
